PORT FACILITIES INCREASE CANADA'S FOREIGN TRADE

Tremendous Strides Made by British Columbia Ports Since the Great War, With Panama Canal as Factor in Development, Emphasized by C. V. Holt, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Vancouver, Before Convention This Forenoon

EUROPE'S TASTES ARE CHANGING

And That Means Greater Consumption of Products of This Pacific Northwest

"It is a barren, cold, mountainous country that is not worth keeping. Fifty railroads would not galvanize it into prosperity."

This was written by a prominent English parliamentarian in a London financial journal forty-five years ago about British Columbia, and G. V. Holt, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Vancouver, used the quotation effectively this morning at the Pacific Foreign Trade Council convention to direct attention, by contrast, to what this Pacific Northwest area really has achieved and its strategic position in foreign trade.

Among the significant things this banker has to say are: "Our exports, speaking for Canada as a whole, run from 30 to 35 per cent. larger than our imports, but on the Pacific they are almost double. There is a spirit of enterprise in the West, which is common to both sides of the boundary line."

"If we can only create new appetites on the part of the people of Europe for some of our products, that market would soon take all our surplus production from the Pacific Coast."

This was the thought that President William Pigott, of the Council, said this morning was running through his mind as one of the objectives which the convention had now set before the Pacific Northwest.

While Mr. Pigott was talking this way to the press in the hotel lobby outside, D. F. Miller, U.S. Trade Commissioner at Berlin, was driving the point home in telling how the people of Europe are demanding a more varied diet similar to that of the people of this continent and how this will provide a greater market for the fruit producers of this coast.

Education by an extensive campaign of advertising, however, is necessary to break down the old habits and habits which have mitigated against the general use of canned goods on the continent. Mr. Miller said there were 80,000 apartments going up in Germany, calling for lumber from this continent.

The soldiers of Canada and later those of the United States were responsible for the demands of the people on the continent of Europe for better and more varied foods, and the resulting wider markets for the producers of this northwest area, according to William A. Schoenfeld, Pacific Northwest representative of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. "The World War did much to bring about an interchange of customs and tastes," Mr. Schoenfeld said to-day at the Empress Hotel. "Wherever troops from this continent were stationed, there one found North American food products, such as

The trade increase of Pacific ports, the effect of the opening of the Panama Canal and the strides made since the war by British Columbia ports were pointed out to Pacific Foreign Trade delegates by C. V. Holt of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Vancouver, in an address on the "Foreign Trade of Canada on the Pacific" this morning.

During his address he mentioned that Canada's increase in foreign trade had been helped by its improvement of its port facilities. Vancouver, under its harbor board had progressed by leaps and bounds and had two of the largest docks to be found in the world, elevator capacity, the latest appliances, and was one of the cheapest ports for shipping. Victoria and Prince Rupert were enlarging their facilities and increasing their business.

He pointed to the fact that the Panama Canal had been in opening of Pacific trade, which had had a direct bearing on trade with Europe. For some years after it was opened, the benefits did not prove to be as great as anticipated, but it had since more than justified its existence.

It had shortened the time to Europe and lowered the cost of handling charges on freight and brought an increase in shipping tonnage of the Pacific Coast. A regular freight line service to Europe had been established with thirty-one lines now plying to Europe. It had also provided for sending parcel ships.

Industries most interested in Western Canada in foreign trade were wheat and lumber. Where a few hundred thousand bushels used to be the export of wheat, in 1924-5 the export figure was 50,000,000 bushels and there was every indication that in the near future it would reach 100,000,000 bushels.

MINER ATTRACTS IDEAL TONNAGE

The large tonnage of lumber on the Pacific Coast had offered an attraction to idle shippers and rather than ship ballast they had low rates and regular service that had helped build up the export trade. Fruit and fish had also been helped by lower freight and regular delivery.

On the reverse side iron, steel and heavy goods manufacturers had suffered from the equal facilities offered to Europe, but in the whole the advantage had been on Canada's side. The thirty-one lines plying to Europe and the Orient as compared with less than half a dozen before the war, allowing direct shipment of goods without transshipment at other ports. Exports of lumber from Pacific ports have grown from 195,000,000 feet in 1920 to 500,000,000 feet in 1926. To these industries and particularly wheat he described a great deal of the rapid development of the foreign trade on this coast during the past few years.

Low rates and regular service have enabled merchants to lay down goods at little higher cost than those situated on the Atlantic seaboard, and by eliminating the long and expensive rail haul, to greatly extend their jobbing territory.

Fruit and fish have benefited by the services by increasing their European markets by means of lower freight, regular deliveries and the better condition in which the products reach their destination.

It was true of Canada as the United States, that her industries were enlarged and stimulated by war production and when the necessity for this ceased and the impoverished condition of Europe reduced her buying power there she turned her attention to the Pacific.

The progress made has naturally been more marked than in countries of British origin, but in commodities where they had the advantage of abundant and easily accessible raw materials, Canada was making substantial growth.

In common with the United States, Canada's export trade naturally suffered from high protective tariffs, and labor costs and in addition from the limited character of its domestic markets and until wages rose in other countries more nearly to a parity with those in Canada and United States as they were giving decided evidence of

ELECTION OF CANADA TO LEAGUE SEAT OF GREAT INTEREST TO EUROPEANS

Geneva, Sept. 16 (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters).—Some foreign circles here regard the election of Canada to a seat in the Council of the League of Nations as opening up big problems and tending to deprive Europe of a new seat in the Council in the future. Moreover they contend

SOME OF THE LEADERS OF VICTORIA'S BIG TRADE CONVENTION

Over six hundred delegates are attending the sessions of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council at the Empress Hotel, representing leading finance and transportation men of the United States and Canada. William Pigott, president of the Council and head of the Pacific Coast Steel Company of Seattle, is seen in the centre of the front line group, fourth from the right.

MAN AND LION FLY ACROSS U.S.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 16.—Leo, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer "flying lion," to-day hopped off with Martin Jensen, Monmouth, N.J., from Camp Kearney field here at 10:15 a.m. on an after-noon non-stop airplane flight to New York.

MANITOBA OFFICIAL DIED ON JOURNEY

R. S. Ward of Winnipeg, Compensation Board Head, Succumbed in Train

St. John, N.B., Sept. 16.—R. S. Ward of Winnipeg, director of the Manitoba Workmen's Compensation Board and secretary of the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council, was found dead in his compartment on a Canadian National Railway train which arrived here early this morning from Moncton. Dr. A. F. Emery, coroner, gave permission for removal of the body to an undertaker's and is considering the matter of an inquest. He believes death was due to apoplexy.

Mr. Ward had attended the annual session of the Associated Workmen's Compensation Boards of Canada, held here, which ended last Wednesday. He then went on a visit to Moncton. Papers in a pocket of his clothes showed he belonged to the International Association of Machinists.

U.S. LEGION LEADERS ARE NOW IN PARIS

Paris, Sept. 16.—General John J. Pershing and the leaders of the American Legion arrived in Paris at 4:40 p.m. to-day. They were greeted at the Invalides Station by civil and military notables.

Disease Wave in Alberta Dies Down

Edmonton, Sept. 16.—Two new cases of infantile paralysis were reported here this morning, increasing the week's total to eleven. Health officials say, however, that there is an evident abatement in the epidemic as there were seventeen cases in the previous week and twenty-seven in the seven-day previous to that.

TO FEED THIRTY MILLION PEOPLE

Saskatchewan, he said, was producing wheat to feed 30,000,000 people, and in the product of a commodity of great importance to the whole world ranked as among the outstanding exporters of the world. Twenty-nine thirtieths of the wheat produced in Saskatchewan was exported to feed the rest of the world. The production of wheat in the whole world was 100,000,000 tons, 18,000,000 tons of which were for export. Canada produced 7,000,000 tons of that wheat which entered into export, and of that 7,000,000 tons 5,000,000 tons was under contract as far as signed contracts were concerned of the wheat pool of Western Canada.

He emphasized how the farmers had banded together to handle the marketing of the crop and gave credit to the financial organizations who had supported the farmers in building up the great fields of Canada.

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

Arguing for transportation facilities for grain shipment, he said there must be connection between Victoria and Vancouver. They were hotly interested in the building up of central Canada. They in central Canada realized that the building up of the prosperity of British Columbia was vital to the prosperity of the whole of Canada.

To ship wheat through the ports of Western Canada there must be return shipment to central Canada.

MANUFACTURES

"Why are you on this coast," he said, "not manufacturing those things which we need in central Canada? Why are you not manufacturing the implements which we need on the wheat fields? You have the water power, you have the facilities."

He paid a compliment to the United States delegates.

In Saskatchewan, he said, there were many men who were born on the other side of the boundary line. They were good citizens. They had helped to build up Saskatchewan. They were men of the same ideals and ambition as those born in Canada.

"I thoroughly agree with what the speaker has said about the good men produced by Canada. I was born in Canada myself," said J. A. Smallwell, chairman of the directors of the Dexter Horton National Bank, Seattle, at the conclusion of the address. I was born in Canada myself.

Baldomero A. Almada, Commercial Attaché of Mexico, followed with an address on the possibilities of international commerce with Mexico.

ONE LONG HOP IS CHICAGO BABY

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has another namesake. He is One Long Hop, a little baby born a few days ago in Chinatown here. His Chinese parents, impressed by Col. Lindbergh's feat, wanted to name their baby boy after him, but they wanted a name with a Chinese ring to it. After much thought the name was chosen to-day.

CAPT. J. W. TROUT whose name is mentioned as a prospective president for the Pacific Foreign Trade Council.

YOUNG WOMAN IS PREPARING FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Ruth Elder Plans New York-Paris Hop, Aided by Veteran Navigator

New York, Sept. 16.—Ruth Elder, a twenty-three-year-old aviatrice, is a married woman, and her husband of two years is coming to New York to see her hop on her "holiday flight" to Paris.

After playing truant for a day from Roosevelt Field, where her monoplane, the American Girl, is being groomed for its long hop, the girl finally admitted she was the wife of Lyle Womack, a salesman in Lakeland, Florida, that she had always used her maiden name while a dentist's assistant in that town, and that she had been "kidding" reporters and others who wanted to determine the domestic status of the young woman who seeks to be the first of her sex to fly over the ocean. She had denied she was married until news dispatches from Florida were called to her attention.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

Finally, two resolutions from the Manitoba command and the Winnipeg unit were amended and adopted, the resolution setting forth that the convention could not agree to the proposal at this time, but offered to co-operate in every way with the Canadian Legion and other ex-service bodies in Canada, here, which is to close its sessions to-day.

President Hill of the Canadian Legion, who was present during the discussion, extended the veterans an invitation to affiliate with that body. Speakers generally showed opposition to the proposal, several of them urging the Canadian Legion had not yet displayed a sufficiently cordial spirit of co-operation.

"We have everything ready to leave Sunday except the weather," said Miss Elder. "Gas bought, runway ready, plane dandy, pilots O.K. Give us a weather break and we shall take off then."

"I have been dreaming and planning this since I first learned to fly two years ago. Lindbergh did it and I then became more determined than ever. I want to be the first girl to turn the trick. I'll do it—I and Capt. Haldeman."

The aviatrice and Capt. George Haldeman, veteran navigator, flew here from Florida, with a stop at Wheeling, West Virginia.

900 JAPANESE PERISH WHEN STEAMER SINKS

Heavy Loss of Life in Region of Kurile Islands Is Reported

Vladivostok, Sept. 16.—Reports received here to-day said 900 Japanese workmen aboard the large Japanese steamship Wusung, belonging to the Kawasaki Steamship Company, perished in the sinking of the vessel.

The reports stated the ship, which was bound from Kamohaka, Siberia, for Japan, was wrecked while passing the Kurile Islands.

There is no steamer Wusung listed in Lloyd's Register, but a vessel named Wusung Maru is listed as belonging to the Kamashiki Steamship Company.

VETERANS REJECT AFFILIATION PLAN

But Army and Navy Veterans in Canada Co-operate With Canadian Legion

Edmonton, Sept. 16.—While willing to co-operate in every way with the Canadian Legion and other ex-service bodies in Canada, the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada will retain their own individuality until such time as it is shown it would be to their advantage to affiliate with the Canadian Legion or any other body.

This is the decision of the tenth annual convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, here, which is to close its sessions to-day.

President Hill of the Canadian Legion, who was present during the discussion, extended the veterans an invitation to affiliate with that body. Speakers generally showed opposition to the proposal, several of them urging the Canadian Legion had not yet displayed a sufficiently cordial spirit of co-operation.

FEW SOCKEYE ARE FOUND THIS YEAR IN QUESNEL LAKE

Quesnel, Sept. 16.—Not enough sockeye salmon to permit the obtaining of sufficient scales for investigation purposes—possibly a hundred specimens—are entering Quesnel Lake, whereas eighteen years ago officials of the Fisheries Department estimated there were 4,000,000 sockeye in the Quesnel River spawning grounds at the lake. To-day there are practically none, Mr. Babcock says, and this is true of other streams tributary to the Fraser River.

TWO BRITISH ARMEN SPEED OVER OCEAN

Monoplane Princess Xenia Sighted as It Left Western Coast of Ireland Carrying Capt. E. H. MacIntosh and J. C. Fitzmaurice, Commandant of Irish Free State Air Force, to New York by Way of Newfoundland

MYSTERY PLANE SIGHTED OVER AZORES TO-DAY

Unknown Machine Seen at 3:30 a.m. Flying Toward the East, It Is Reported

At Low Altitude; Going at Normal Speed; Weather Favorable

Horta, Azores, Sept. 16.—An unidentified aeroplane was reported to have passed over the western side of Fayal Island this morning at 3:30, local time. The plane was flying from west to east at a low altitude and apparently in good condition. The weather was very fine and the sea calm, with a light breeze.

London, Sept. 16.—Considerable mystery is attached here to the identity of the aeroplane reported sighted over the Azores this morning since there has been news here of any transatlantic flying, except the MacIntosh-Fitzmaurice flight, which started from Ireland to-day after the plane had been reported over the Azores. The fact that the machine was flying from west to east would seem to indicate it was most improbable its starting point was on this side of the Atlantic.

Dublin, Sept. 16.—One of the aeroplanes which escorted the MacIntosh-Fitzmaurice monoplane Princess Xenia, on the start of its transatlantic flight to-day returned to the aerodrome here about half an hour after the flight had started. The pilot said the Princess Xenia was making excellent time when he last saw it and was going at about 110 miles an hour. He said that as he was a few minutes behind the plane in taking off, he had been unable to catch up with it. When he last saw the plane, he said, it was flying steadily and the other aeroplanes was accompanying it to the coast.

FAIR WEATHER

New York, Sept. 16.—Dr. James H. Kimball, head of the local weather bureau, said to-day from message reports of North Atlantic weather he believed conditions were "fair" for the transatlantic flight of the MacIntosh-Fitzmaurice aeroplanes.

ST. LAWRENCE AIR MAIL SERVICE STARTED TO-DAY

BALLOTS COUNTED IN IRISH FREE STATE

Full Results of General Election Will Be Known Next Week

Dublin, Sept. 16.—Tellers to-day began the task of counting the unusually heavy vote cast in the general election in the Irish Free State yesterday, with Cosgrave, Government leader, expressing confidence the result constituted a strong endorsement of the administration. Tabulation of the ballots will continue to-morrow and only fragmentary knowledge of the outcome is probable before next week.

THREE MEN WOUNDED

Three men were wounded, one seriously, a message from Strathane says, in an election fight between Fianna Fail (Valera) party and government supporters at Rappoe, Donegal, last night. John Curran, who was seriously wounded when he was shot through the abdomen, is a grave condition. Nine shots were fired in the affray.

The apparent apathy of the voters during the campaign was contradicted by the unexpectedly large number of votes cast. Observers commented particularly upon the appearance at the polls of a considerable number of women and elderly persons.

Belfast, Sept. 16.—The monoplane Princess Xenia, bound west across the Atlantic, passed over Maryborough, Queen's County, at 2 p.m., headed due west.

Maryborough is about forty miles southwest of Dublin, the starting point.

Fourteen Firemen Suffer Injuries

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 16.—Fire last night and early this morning sweeping through the four-story Zellbach Paper Company and Ward Seed Company buildings on Sacramento's waterfront caused a loss of more than $225,000. Fourteen firemen were injured by a falling wall, two seriously. One may die as the result of a fracture of the skull.

NELSON

IF THE MORNING PAPER'S COMMENTS on the by-election which will have to be held in the Nelson constituency some time in the early future indicate anything at all, they suggest that the Conservative Party already is convinced that it can recapture that seat with very little trouble. The Opposition candidate now has been selected and we presume that active campaigning will be commenced at once. In due season the date of the contest will be announced and Dr. Tolmie's standard-bearer will know who his adversary will be.

Our contemporary has informed us that the Nelson constituency is only nominally Liberal. Let us test the merit of this statement. After Dr. Rose resigned his seat in the Legislature to enter the Federal field in the general election of 1921 the riding was captured by the Liberals. Mr. Kenneth Campbell was the successful candidate; and when he offered himself for re-election in 1924 he headed the poll again. On that occasion, moreover, he polled 902 votes as compared with the Conservative's total of 711; but, in addition, a Labor candidate polled 478 votes. It will not be argued with any seriousness that these 478 votes were pro-Conservative. On the contrary, the anti-Conservative vote was 1,380 against, or nearly two to one. When the late Premier Oliver contested the seat after his defeat in Victoria, Mr. Campbell resigning in his favor, he polled 1,124 votes and his opponent 786.

In view of these three Liberal victories, and conclusive victories into the bargain, we fail to see the force of the argument which has induced the morning paper to say that Nelson is only nominally Liberal. If figures mean anything at all—and in this case they represent the votes of the electorate—they show, as far as Nelson is concerned, that it is overwhelmingly Liberal.

"WAS HE SO POOR AND INSANE?"

SOME PECULIAR WILLS HAVE COME to light in the years gone by—wills humorous, wills grave, and wills eccentric; but it is not often a testator without material possessions goes to the trouble of negotiating a lengthy document of this kind. It usually is confined to brief legal phraseology and is made more as a safeguard than anything else. An epic in this regard, however, recently was discovered in the pocket of an old ragged coat belonging to one of the insane patients of the Chicago poorhouse after his death. The Pictorial Review tells us that the man had been a lawyer and the document was so unusual that it was sent to another attorney who was so impressed by its contents that he read it before the Chicago Bar Association, a resolution being passed ordering it probated. It now is on the records of Cook County, Illinois, and this is the document as The Pictorial Review prints it in its September issue:

I, Charles Lounsbury, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this my last will and testament, in order, as justly as may be, to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interests which is known in law and recognized in the sheep-bound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of none account, I make no disposition of in this, my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but, these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement, and all quietest peace and contentment, and I charge said parents to use them justly, but generously, as the deeds of their children shall require.

Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every the flowers of the fields and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the benefits of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees. And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject, nevertheless, to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

Item: I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snow-clad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim Winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhood.

And all meadows, with the clover-blossoms and butterflies thereof; the woods with their appurtenances; the squirrels and the birds, and echoes and strange noises; and all distant places, the highways, the villages, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance or without any encumbrance or care.

Item: To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the honeysuckle, the sweet strains of music, and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the lastings and beauty of their love.

Item: To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all the boisterous, inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness, and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave to them the power to make lasting friendships, and of possessing companions, and to them, exclusively, I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

Item: And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers, I leave memory; and bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets, if there be others, to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully, without tithes or diminution.

Item: To our loved ones with snow-crowns, I bequeath the happiness of the old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep.

The Pictorial Review asks whether, after all, he was so poor and insane. The answer is that whatever his mental and material conditions may have been, the contents of the few scraps of paper—for this last will and testament was not written on vellum—that were found in his coat reflect a serenity of outlook which many a sane and wealthy person would give much to obtain.

BE PROUD OF CANADA

SOME OF THE THINGS WHICH MR. L. P. D. Tilley said to the youth of Canada when he spoke at the directors' luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto recently will be repeated in all parts of the country. He was emphasizing the necessity for the development of a national spirit, and the very fact that he is the son of one of the Fathers of Confederation adds more force to his remarks. He said:

As I look about me and see men—men like myself—growing older in years, I feel that a national spirit must be inculcated in the boys and girls going to school.

To the youth of Canada I send this message: Study the history of your country; love every inch of its soil; never defame, but always acclaim its merits; let no monetary call to other lands induce you to leave permanently the land of your nativity.

Remember that this country of yours, of mine, is our country—the right arm of the British Empire.

This is advice which should be taken by every young man and woman in this Dominion. Canada obviously presents more opportunities to her sons and daughters than any other country in the world, and if they develop a right sense of pride in her accomplishments and make up their minds that they are going to share the triumphs of her future development, they will be fully compensated.

OUR AIR MAIL SERVICE

THE SECOND ATTEMPT TO INAUGurate an air mail service from Rimouski to Montreal has been successful. A seaplane of the Royal Canadian Air Force met the Empress of Australia this morning and quickly got away to Montreal with five hundred pounds of letter mail. On the first occasion the machine came to grief before it had gone many yards and time was lost instead of saved; but it is gratifying to note that the authorities were in no way dismayed by one failure.

The importance of the new service can not be overestimated. It means at the outset that a day will be saved in the delivery of letters in Montreal and, as the service is extended, it will bring Toronto and other cities farther West much nearer to the Old World as far as mail matter is concerned. It may be some time, of course, before letters will be carried through the air all across the country; but there seems to be no reason why even an innovation of that kind should not be looked for sooner than may be apparent at this stage. In any event, it is satisfactory to note that a start has been made. The day should not be far off when a similar arrangement may be made on this Coast.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SWIMMING AFTER MEALS
From The Montreal Star

Each year, during the summer months, the waters around the Island of Montreal take a heavy toll of swimmers. How many of those who lose their lives have thoughtlessly plunged in for a cool swim too soon after eating, it is impossible to say, but the facts point to a heavy percentage of the mortality as being due to this. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that anybody who goes for a swim within a few minutes after having eaten a heavy meal is inviting disaster. The stomach has its proper work to do, and it objects to being asked to do this under conditions that are bad. To be on the safe side, nobody should go in swimming for at least two hours after eating. Food should be given full time for digestion. It is better to bathe on a biscuit and a cup of coffee than upon beef steak and apple pie and doughnuts and ice cream and cheese. Particularly in this the case when the water is cold, as happens to be the case more often than not around this district. Above all, bathing in the mountain lakes, with their frequent variations of temperature within a few yards and their numerous rocky springs, should be done cautiously. To dive into Laurentian lake right after dinner is to invite swift death.

JOYS FROM GEOGRAPHY

LEPER SETTLEMENT on the island of Molokai, Hawaii, is surrounded on three sides by water and is cut off from the rest of the island by a precipitous 2,800 feet high. Life is made very agreeable for the inmates. They have the best hospital equipment obtainable. The world came to know of the colony through the book written by Father Damien, who gave his life in attempt to alleviate the suffering of the lepers.

Life's Niceties Hints On Etiquette

Canadian Questions and Answers

CANADA'S MINING PRODUCTION
Q.—What was Canada's mining production in 1926?
A.—Canada's mineral industries yielded a new record output in 1926 when the value of production reached $248,000,000, an advance of 71 per cent above the total of $236,583,333 reported for 1925. The previous high record of $237,859,000 was established in 1920. Metal mining produced great strength and steadiness throughout the year. Production of copper, lead and zinc reached new records; the output of silver was higher than in 1925; gold was steady, nickel production was only slightly less than in the previous year. Non-metallic minerals, other than coal, at a value of $25,841,000, were up ten per cent from the total in 1925.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The Victoria Daily Times, September 16, 1902.

"The Cottage City is looking all right. I don't think there will be any trouble in getting her off," said Captain Outter, of the tug Pilot, who arrived this morning from Juneau. With a total of 160 passengers and a full cargo the steamer Queen arrived here last evening from San Francisco.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Light to moderate winds, generally fair and warm, not much change in temperature.

During the convention of the fire chiefs of the Pacific Coast in this city the relief association of the local fire department will give a ball.

CANADA TOO EAGER TO GET POPULATION, SAYS ORANGE HEAD

Dr. J. W. Edwards Gives Interesting Address at Chamber of Commerce

"I would not grant a single foot of Canadian soil to any class of people whom we cannot hope to assimilate and make into Canadian citizens," declared Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., Grand Master of the Royal Orange Association of British Columbia in an address given last night in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium under the auspices of the Victoria Orange Lodge. We should not be harsh with strangers who come to this country from Continental Europe, but we should not permit these people to transplant to this soil the conditions which they found undesirable in the country from which they came," he added.

Mr. Edwards explained that in the province of Saskatchewan last year there had arrived about 2,000 English-speaking immigrants, as compared with about 12,000 non-English-speaking. In his opinion, was altogether too eager to get population.

Dr. Edwards gave an interesting interpretation of the British North America Act as it affects the relative rights and the relative powers of the federal and provincial bodies. He sought also to give the correct solution to a problem which has been agitating the citizens of the prairie provinces in interpreting the British North America Act as related to natural resources and education in those provinces.

In the latter respect Dr. Edwards quoted Section 117 of the Act, wherein it was noted that "the several provinces shall retain all their respective public property not otherwise disposed of in this act, subject to the right of Canada to assume any lands or public property required for fortifications or defence of the country." Also, under Section 123, the status of the French language was set forth. Outside the Province of Quebec and the Parliament of Canada the French language had no constitutional status whatever, although the speaker argued there were certain propagandists "who were endeavoring to build up in Canada a nation within a nation."

ALBANY EXHIBITS OF HIGH STANDARD AT ANNUAL DISPLAY

Judges Speak of Excellence of Produce; Government Exhibit Praised

Albany, Sept. 15.—The annual Fall fair of the Albany Agricultural and Industrial Association was held on Wednesday, under ideal weather conditions.

There was a large turnout of residents of the district, and some very fine vegetable and other exhibits.

There was a good number of entries in the ladies' work and domestic science sections. The stock and fruit sections were not so well represented as usual. The Dominion experimental station at Sidney, B.C., had a very fine educational exhibit in charge of Mr. Hall, the assistant superintendent, showing the kinds of fruit and grains best suited for Vancouver Island soil. A fine variety of fruits and grain seeds was displayed.

The following acted as judges in the respective classes:

Live stock: N. Grimmer, of Pender Island; poultry: J. T. Partridge, of Nanaimo; field crops: S. S. Phillips, of Victoria; garden produce, fruit and flowers: J. Twigg, from the Okanagan; and ladies' work and domestic science, Mrs. Frank Campbell, of Esquimalt.

Y.W.C.A. MOVE TO NEW PREMISES AT MONTH'S END

Local Firms and Organizations Helping With Furnishing of New Building

Representing the dream of a band of energetic and devoted women who have given many years of patient and arduous work to the cause, the new Y.W.C.A. building is now nearing completion. The directors of the "Y" hope to move into the new quarters on October 1, and the official opening is planned to take place early in the month as soon as arrangements can be completed.

The new building is of two stories, finished in stucco, and is at the corner of Quadra and Courtney streets. It is a handsome addition to the buildings of the city, and will be an invaluable asset to the life of the city as a rendezvous for girls and women.

GIFTS OF FURNISHINGS.
While the present furnishings of the "Y" will be used as far as possible, they will be inadequate in the new premises, and among those who have come to the assistance of the board of directors in the heavy item of furnishing is the Women's Canadian Club.

The new building is of two stories, finished in stucco, and is at the corner of Quadra and Courtney streets. It is a handsome addition to the buildings of the city, and will be an invaluable asset to the life of the city as a rendezvous for girls and women.

NEW INSTRUCTIONS.
The new building, with a splendid recreation room with adjoining shower baths and attractive club rooms, thus filling a long-felt need in the "Y" work. With these facilities the Girls' Work committee have been able to make arrangements for a comprehensive list of clubs and classes in basketry, china painting, dressmaking, home nursing, basketball, physical culture and swimming.

The board of directors could itself very fortunate in securing the services of Miss Mena Miller, formerly sports mistress at St. George's School, as head of the physical department, and Miss Audrey Griffin and Miss Gwen Bailey have kindly offered their services for classes in swimming at the Y.M.C.A. and the Crystal Garden. Interesting clubs and classes are also being planned for "teen age" girls and adults.

Registrations for any of these classes may be made at the present headquarters, Stober-Peace Building, Yates Street, telephone No. 4690. All classes will be in full swing by the second week in October.

REEVE OF BURNABY IS MARRIED HERE

Miss Jessie Munro and Charles C. Gray Wed

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Christ Church Cathedral was the scene of a pretty wedding when the Rev. C. C. Gray, Dean of Columbia, united in marriage Jessie Munro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Munro, 1733 Denman Street, and Mr. Charles C. Gray, son of the Rev. and Mrs. William Bell, of Central Park, Burnaby.

For the occasion, autumn flowers were used in decoration in the cathedral.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a handsome dress of blue de rose georgette with hat to match and carried a shower of Ophelia roses.

Miss Rita Munro, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and wore a frock of orchid georgette with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was supported by Mr. William Buckingham, of Vancouver, and the bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Smith, brother of the bride, and Mr. Duncan Smith.

Following the ceremony at the cathedral, a reception attended by a large number of friends of both families was held at the home of the bride's parents, 1733 Denman Street, where Mrs. Munro wearing a gown of mauve crepe de Chine with black hat and Mrs. Bell, in a henna colored costume with hat to match assisted in receiving the guests.

Mrs. J. M. Young of Vancouver sang "At Dawning."

Mr. and Mrs. Bell left on the afternoon boat for Seattle and Portland, and the bride and groom will make their future home in Burnaby.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. William Bell, of Central Park, Miss Margaret Smith, brother of the bride, and Mr. Duncan Smith.

PLAN POUND PARTY FOR W.C.T.U. HOME

Plans for the annual pound party to be held on Thursday, September 29, were made by the board of management of the W.C.T.U. Home for Friendless Women at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon. The members expressed the hope that the work carried on by the home for many years would be remembered by its friends on that occasion.

Satisfactory reports of the year's work were given at the meeting. Mrs. William Grant, Mrs. John Hall and Mrs. F. W. Laing were chosen to represent the board at the annual provincial convention of the W.C.T.U. to be held in New Westminster on September 30 to 22.

SYDNEY GIRLS CRUISE OR CAR IN FROLIC CONTEST

Thousands Flocked to Crystal Garden and Theatre Last Night For Travelers' Frolic

That traveling men can be as successful in putting over a frolic as they are in putting over a sale was manifest last evening, when fully 3,000 people supported the annual frolic arranged by the United Commercial Travelers. This number represents the crowd which flocked to the Crystal Garden alone, while the two shows arranged under the same auspices at the Royal Victoria Theatre drew bumper houses, only 250 vacant seats being left at the second performance.

The real carnival spirit prevailed at the Crystal Garden, where the crowds danced in the two large ballrooms and the banquet hall, in which a new dancing floor has recently been installed. Other succumbed to the temptation of the bathing pool and frolicked in the water, while many were content to remain spectators, enjoying the gaiety of the scene.

WON CHRYSLER CAR.
The drawing for the Chrysler car, Model Sixty-two, or the round-the-world cruise on the liner Empress of France, took place at midnight amid great excitement. Miss Anna Marshall, of the KOMO concert party, making the drawing. Miss Crossley, of Marine Drive, Sydney, holder of ticket No. 1652, was the lucky winner and will have the choice of the car or the trip.

At the theatre the artists known to thousands of fans over KOMO radio station received a rousing reception from crowded houses.

G. Donald Gray, chief announcer of KOMO, introduced the artists individually and loud applause. The first of the artists was the early Canadian heroine who defended her father's fort against the Indians, are visitors in Vancouver and Victoria this week in the persons of Joseph Beaubien of Montreal, and his daughter, Miss Madeleine Beaubien Vercheres, a descendant of Aubert de Lachenaie, ship owner and merchant of Quebec between 1665 and 1685, and a friend and adviser of Frontenac, the French governor, was a stalwart girl of fifteen years when the exploit which has made her a figure in Canadian history was done. With her thirteen-year-old brother and a handful of men, she defended the fort against the Indians at bay until her father's return. After she had married Monsieur Le Perche she found herself again faced with the need of defending her father's fort against the Indians at that time she was a young girl of fifteen years when the exploit which has made her a figure in Canadian history was done.

Rev. William Bell and Mrs. Bell of Central Park, Burnaby, who came over to attend the wedding of their son, Mr. Charles C. Gray, and his daughter, Miss Jessie Munro, that took place yesterday afternoon, are spending a few days in Victoria as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Jubilee Avenue.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Discussed at Meeting of Parish Representatives Yesterday

A "Children's Corner" in the new Christ Church Cathedral to include a children's arch and a group of stained-glass windows, was the subject of a meeting of representatives of local parishes, held yesterday afternoon under the chairmanship of Rev. A. W. Young.

While no systematic effort has been made to date to secure funds for this project, gifts amounting to $202.65 have already been received for the purpose. Subscriptions have come from individual boys and girls and from Sunday schools in Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Duncan, and Salt Spring Island. The estimated cost of the complete undertaking, as planned at present, was given at $5,000.

There are fifty-four Sunday schools in the diocese, it was stated, having a total enrolment of over 3,000 pupils with more than 800 teachers. If all, or most of these Sunday school members would take some part in providing the "Children's Corner," the committee felt that their objective could be reached.

Favorable consideration was given the report that the children's committee should choose the agency in the diocese for The Canadian Churchman. An illustrated article on the new cathedral would be published in next week's issue, it was stated, describing the visit of the Prince of Wales and the children's committee, and the hope was expressed that church people throughout the diocese would support this effort.

MISS EVA HART

will be one of the artists on the attractive programme to be given at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at the Empress Hotel on Tuesday at 2.45. The committee on nominations for next year's officers and executives will make its report. Membership tickets for 1928 will also be available. Other artists assisting on Tuesday will be Mrs. Harry Lasenby, contralto; Miss Vivian Moggy, pianist; Miss Rae Miller, violinist, and Miss Noel Cusack, elocutionist.

PRETTY WEDDING ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Dr. Wm. B. Bell and Miss Mildred Bell United in Marriage

Masses of hydrangeas, dahlias and asters made a lovely setting for the wedding in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, last evening of Mildred Hesel, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Bell, Pentland Road, Oak Bay, to Dr. William Wilberforce Bell, son of Rev. J. W. Bell and Mrs. Bell of Vermilion, Alta. During the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. de L. Nunns, the bride party stood beneath an archway of flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and looked charming in her wedding gown of ivory crepe-back satin, made in long-waisted style, the skirt having insets and godets of fine shadow lace and trimmed with true lovers' knots of white satin ribbon. Her veil of embroidered net was arranged in cap fashion, held to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Marjorie Bell, sister of the bride, was the only attendant, wearing a pretty frock of powder blue crepe de Chine, embroidered in silver, with pleated skirt forming two deep frills. Her picture had matched her frock and was trimmed with touches of silver. She carried pink carnations and white sweet peas.

Rev. F. J. Stevens of Vermilion was best man, the ushers being Mr. G. W. Scott and Mr. H. B. Brown. During the signing of the register Mr. D. A. Ellwood sang "Thanks Be to God."

Following the ceremony a reception attended only by relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom, was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Bell, mother of the bride, receiving in a gown of navy blue Canton crepe with a black hat trimmed with gold and a becoming gold and black lace scarf. In the drawing-room, where the young people stood to receive

After motoring to Portland, Dr. and Mrs. Bell will return to Vermilion, Alta., where they will make their home.

GOOD TEETH AN INVALUABLE POSSESSION

The care of the teeth begins before the child is born. The mother's diet should contain the correct foods for her own nourishment so that she may supply the developing child with them. Children whose teeth are ridged and spotted or decay early, prove some time during the pre-natal period the mother's diet was inadequate in some way.

The first teeth begin to form six weeks after conception; the second teeth during the latter months of pregnancy. The first teeth make their appearance in the mouth about five or six months after the baby is born, so that whether these are strong and white depends not so much on the diet during the first five months, though this is important too, but during those months of pregnancy.

Daily care of the teeth should begin as soon as they appear. This means keeping them free from food particles. The green stain which sometimes appears on a child's teeth is due to a deposit formed by the saliva. The daily use of a soft toothbrush, or a bit of cotton dipped in powdered chalk, or

AT THE THEATRES

EUROPEANS LIKE A
HAPPY ENDING IN MODERN MOVIES

Contrary to the prevalent belief in film circles, Adolphe Menjou declares that the theatre patrons of Europe are fundamentally no different to-day from their confreres on this continent; they thoroughly enjoy the picture with a happy ending. Menjou proves his point by indicating his recent vehicles "Evening Clothes," "Blonde or Brunette," "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," all of which he states have been as successful in Europe as they have here.

"It's all bunk about Europeans audiences not wanting a happy ending," says Menjou. "Europeans are just like everybody else. They want the story to be true to life and to human nature. Take 'Service for Ladies' for example. As originally conceived over a year ago the story worked up to what they call a 'European ending.' But it wasn't true to life or human nature. Any girl in love with a man, no matter what his profession or station in life, is going to marry the man she loves. Therefore, why have any other ending?" Menjou's case in point "Service for Ladies" is at the Capitol Theatre this week. Supporting the star is a strong cast headed by Kathryn Carver, Lawrence Grant and Charles Lane.

The stage attractions included in the bill at the Capitol are: Mary Louisa Treen and "Shester" Hartwell, from Fanchon and Marco's gorgeous stage presentation "The Mug's Innovation," and The Lady Harpists Trio Supreme.

Hines began the year right by signing his quota of male sex appeal for his latest First National Picture, "All Aboard," now showing at the Playhouse. One of the outstanding representatives of masculine beauty in the film is Frank Hagney, who makes a splendid running mate for Edna, the Chinese actor. Among other candidates for Apollo's celluloid crown in the comedy are J. James Leonard, George Reed, Henry Barrows, Buster Brodie, Eddie Dennis and Fred McIsley, while the feminine portion of loveliness is headed by Edna Murphy.

"SENSATIONS OF - 1927" OPENS AT
ROYAL TO-NIGHT

Kenneth Christy, Comedian of Resource, Appearing in Novel Musical Revue

Kenneth Christy, chief fun-maker with Charles George's spectacular musical revue, "Sensations of 1927," which opens a two days' engagement at the Royal Victoria Theatre starting to-night and giving two performances to-morrow, seems destined to become one of the foremost comedians of the day. He knows instinctively what is funny. He has a tremendous interest in the psychology of the customer, as he calls the great theatre-going public who look to the theatre to be entertained. He likes to know the types who come to see "Sensations" whether it is the tired business man, the craftsman or just the younger set that can pretty nearly always be depended upon to predominate in numbers, and once Christy acquaints himself with the patron he can be depended upon to supply his share of the entertaining from the rise of the curtain.

The producer realizes that in this modern day of show business he must carry a heavy investment in stage settings, brilliant lighting effects, gorgeous costumes and fill his stage with wonderful singers, dancers and bewitching girls. He knows down in his heart that first and last his show "over," in the language of the stage, he must carry an array of comedians and, when Charles George, the producer, signed Mr. Christy he knew he was giving to the lovers of comedy the greatest fun-maker touring the continent.

Cadison Miles, well-known dramatic critic of The Minneapolis, Minn. Journal, reviewing "Sensations of 1927" lauded Christy for his unusual ability in his chosen vocation. Mr. Miles says: "There are several principals with the best comic in Kenneth Christy." have seen in the last few months. Christy is a humorist of resource, deliberation, good timing of his jests and a sincerity that gives plausibility to his yodel characterization.

Christy hails from St. Louis. He discovered the stage calling him when attending school and following his early training vaudeville claimed him. Later he devoted some few years to stock, where he learned and developed his great ability.

Action is the thrilling keynote of "Quicksands," starring Richard Dix, at the Columbia Theatre.

The story keeps rolling along rapidly enough to satisfy the most exacting of theatregoers. Those who like their action rough and ready will find it in plentiful quantities in "Quicksands."

Heien Chadwick and Noah Berry are in the featured roles.

This new issue of "Quicksands" with its clever retelling and reediting is said to be a most gripping picture. Jack Conway directed. The story is by Howard Hawks.

EARLY FAILURE OF
CLARA BOW FAILED

Clara Bow's first appearance upon the screen resulted in a complete failure.

Given a small part in "Beyond the Rainbow" several years ago, she didn't know how to put on her make-up. When her chance to act arrived, she was told to cry. The tears made such a mess of her grease-paint, powder and mascara that when the actor was viewed on the screen, the director cut her entirely out of the picture.

Miss Bow is now appearing in the starring role of "Hulu" which Victor Fleming directed for Paramount. The

VICTORIA HAS NOVEL STUNT
AT CONVENTION

Rhyming Presentations Make Hit With Pacific Foreign Trade Delegates

Victoria staged a convention stunt at the get-together banquet for the Pacific Foreign Trade delegates at the Empress Hotel last night that the visitors voted one of the greatest they have ever met. Reginald Hines, the well-known local actor-manager was called in to direct and rose wonderfully to the occasion. It consisted of a series of presentations appropriate to the business of the recipients. Capt. Robert Dollar was due to receive a ship to add to his fleet. A. F. Brady, secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, took the place of the Dollar Line chief who has been prevented from attending the convention by an accident with which he met a few days ago. The ship so tiny that it could hardly be seen on the great ebony base, was presented with due ceremonial and in clever rhyme. J. T. Hardeman of the Hardeman Hat Company, Seattle, was presented with a miniature hat also on an ebony base. O. K. Davis, secretary of the U. S. National Foreign Trade Council, in recognition of his fame as a journalist and author, was presented with a fountain pen on an equally impressive base. J. J. Donovan, vice-president Bloedel-Donovan Lumber Mills of Bellingham, was presented with a miniature log. P. J. Koster, president California Berber Company, San Francisco, in token of the business of his firm of making barrels, was presented with a miniature bottle of whisky with an admonition from Mr. Hines to keep busy making barrels while British Columbia "drew the stuff to fill 'em." He was absent but a deputy impersonated him.

The crowning feature of the successful stunt, however, came when Mr. Hines signaled a page boy who brought in a great bouquet of chrysanthemums almost as big as himself. Mr. Hines's rhyme was followed with a great outburst of applause as he handed the bouquet to Miss M. Goode, secretary of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, who smiling and unassuming under the strain of numerous duties has been one of the hardest workers for the success of the convention and an efficient officer in the conduct of the convention.

ROBBER EXECUTED
IN PEKING STREET

Peking, Sept. 16.—The severed head of a robber was hung up on a pole in one of Peking's principal streets adjoining the legation quarter yesterday afternoon as the result of a daring descent by four men upon a Chinese banquet Wednesday night in an attempt to extort a large sum of money from Mei Lang-fong, China's most famous actor.

In a pistol battle with police, the robber leader was killed and one of the men, the one executed yesterday, was captured, while Chang Han-chi, secretary in the Ministry of Finance, who was a guest, was fatally wounded. It appears the robbers first went to Mei's house for the purpose of kidnapping and holding him for ransom. Learning he was at the banquet, which was being held at the home of Pang Kung-tung, former Governor of the Bank of China, the robbers went there.

They entered the banquet hall covered the guests, who were leading Chinese financiers and demanded $200,000. Considerable parleying followed. Mei offered $50,000 to the robbers, who agreed to accept it. The actor signed a cheque for the amount and the robbers left. Meanwhile, a se-

Oswald Butts Slips Parents in London and Goes to Russia
With French Dancer

International interest has been aroused over the elopement of Oswald Butts, son of Col. and Mrs. Hannibal Butts, of Yonkers, N.Y., and Yvette, the petite Parisian actress. Oswald, who had just left school, was snatched by love at first sight when he gazed upon the beautiful Yvette across the footlights and at a meeting at the stage door they decided to elope and rush off to Russia.

This all happens in "The Red Widow," the musical comedy which is to be produced at the Royal Victoria Theatre on September 29 and 30 and October 1 by the Gyro Club. Oswald Butts is one of the leading characters and is a real manny's boy in many ways, but he certainly knows how to pick out a good looking girl. Yvette makes things rather difficult for Oswald when she kicks her slipper over the footlights and it lands in Mrs. Butts's lap. If a Frenchman could catch an actress's slipper he would consider it a great honor, but Mrs. Butts has been reared in a different school and consequently the scenes which follow perturb both the arrogant Mrs. Butts and the temperamental Yvette.

But as all shows end, everything turns out alright and everyone is happy, and that's the way the Gyro Club expect to send three full houses home from "The Red Widow."

Members of the Gyro Club are now selling tickets for the show which promises to make the greatest hit of their theatrical career.

Keating

Keating, Sept. 16.—The Keating Basketball Club have commenced activities for the 1927-28 season, the election of officers having taken place at the second annual meeting held in the Temperance Hall. Ralph Mitchell presided at the meeting and the year's report and financial statement were read by the secretary, Miss Janet Sherring. The election of officers for the coming season resulted in T. B. A merry party was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Young, Central Saanich Road on Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Betty Young entertained a number of little friends in celebration of her tenth birthday. A happy time was spent in games, and a dainty tea was served, a birthday cake occupying the centre of the table. The guests were Dorothy Wood, Marjorie Oakey, Lola Hull, Lola and Bobby Spooner, Dorothy and Sylvia Wright, Eileen and Ruth Book, Barbara and Douglas Beaumont, Wilma Ambrose, Betty, Patricia and Humphrey Young.

The Young People's Club of the South Saanich United Church will meet in the church on Monday evening, September 19, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Lee and Miss Lillian Dearing, religious convener, will take charge of the evening's programme.

Harvest home services will be held in the United Church at South Saanich on Sunday morning, October 9, instead of October 2, as previously announced. Special harvest music will be rendered by the combined choirs of Sidney and South Saanich. The Ladies' Aid of South Saanich are arranging a concert and social in connection with the harvest festival, to be held in the Temperance Hall on Thursday evening, October 13, when members of the First United Church choir in Victoria will present an interesting and varied programme.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin Blaine of Seattle and Mr. James Russell of Vancouver have returned to their homes after attending the funeral of their mother, the late Mrs. Russell, whose death occurred at Keating last week.

Misses Jean and Winnifred Travis, Telegraph Road, have taken up residence in Victoria for the winter months. Mrs. Travis is spending several days with her daughters in Victoria.

Mrs. P. Christianson of Victoria is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Turgoose, Saanichton, for several days.

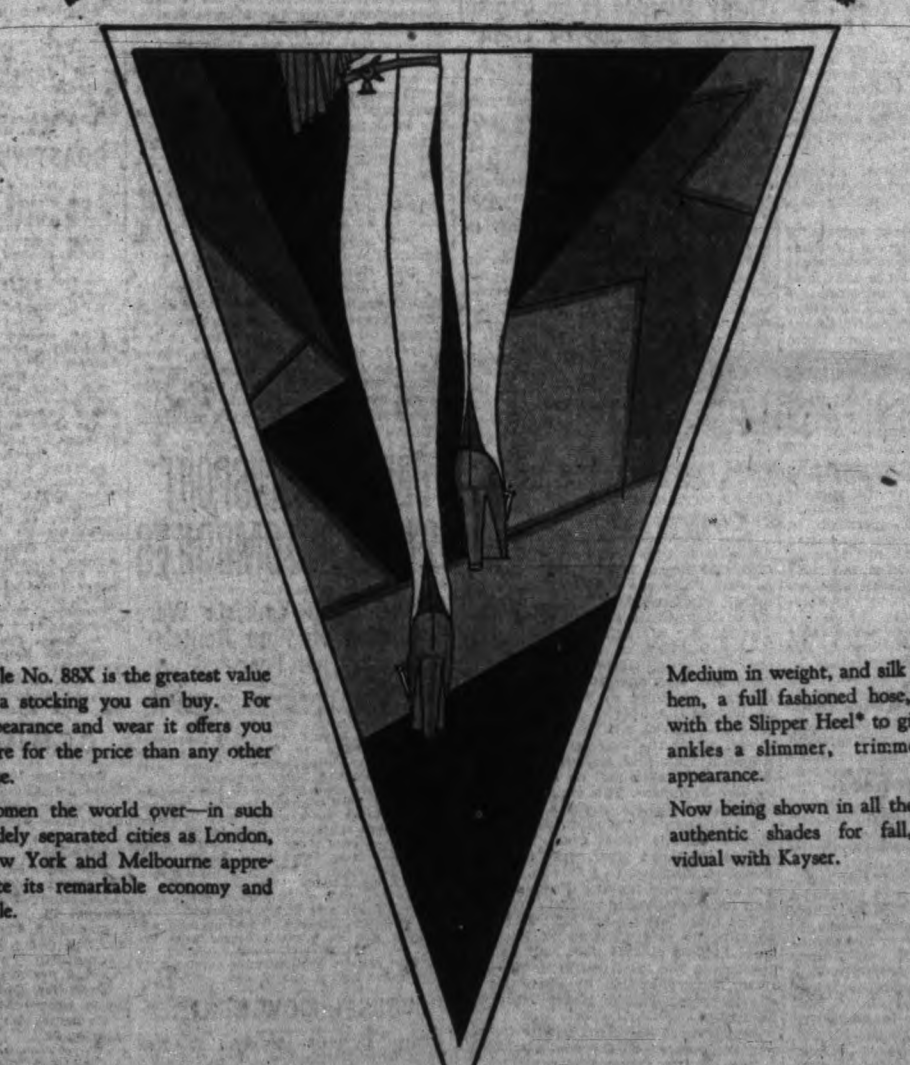

Mr. and Mrs. Mosher have returned to their home on Giles Road after a holiday spent with relatives in Vancouver.

REALTORS' OFFICERS ARE SPEAKERS HERE

J. W. Wheeler and T. W. Zimmerman Address Real Estate Board

J. W. Wheeler and T. W. Zimmerman, president and secretary respectively of the Pacific Northwest Realty Association, were the guests of the Victoria Real Estate Board at the Chamber of Commerce to-day.

Mr. Wheeler thanked the Victoria Board for the co-operation and assistance it gave during the recent national convention in Seattle.

Speaking of publicity, Mr. Wheeler said that it had been proved that the best way to advertise a city was in co-operation with others—the advertisement, for instance, of the Puget Sound ports, was of mutual advantage to the surrounding cities, Seattle, Victoria and all the rest, he said.

"Seattle," he said, "is, as a matter of fact, in the centre of a great growing district. The state is a whole lot more, but California is the retail shed, and sells the Seattle produce as its own."

It was the duty of the business man to sell not only a house and lot, but his whole city. First, said Mr. Wheeler, the realtor should see that the city was sold to the citizens, and then to the tourist and potential resident.

"Real estate has got to be proved a safe investment, as it is in California," said Mr. Wheeler. "You have got to prove it. Keep down the tax rate, and it will boost your sale prices."

The National Association of realtors was doing its best to prevent a man who was not qualified operating as a real estate agent. The association was trying to educate, and these things would help the business, he believed.

Mr. Wheeler spoke at some length on American business problems which confronted the modern real estate man. Property owners were not organized, for instance, he said, and there were political aspects of the case where redress could and would be attained. Income tax burdens which were unfair, and so on. Land owners would lean to lean upon an expert, or upon the real estate boards. Owners needed representation on these boards, he thought, and such a thing would work advantageously in every way.

A. R. Wolfenden, president of the Victoria board, thanked Mr. Wheeler for his address and for many of the valuable suggestions he had thrown out.

PLANS FOR CONVENTION

Mr. Zimmerman spoke of the next Northwest Realtors' convention, which will be held in Victoria in 1928. He hoped, he said, that there would be no more conventions in Victoria at that time the realtors came. They would want the city pretty much for themselves.

Institutions, community and national advertising were becoming recognized as valuable methods of increasing business, said Mr. Wheeler. Mr. Wheeler had the time to suggest to boost business. Realtors could sell to the buying public just as ice cream men had done, could increase their output like the ice cream manufacturers had done; just as these latter had made America buy three gallons of ice cream per person annually, so realtors could better their trade.

Business methods were changing, said the speaker. Competition made a high type of service necessary, made it essential for real estate brokers to know their business and have information at their fingers.

"We have to study the tax problems and the things that most effect us," said Mr. Zimmerman. For, he pointed out, the public was learning fast, and a broker had to work to keep a jump ahead of them. "We have to study all the time and keep right on their toes," said Mr. Zimmerman. Education along these lines was being conducted in sixty-two of the big colleges of America.

It was necessary to build up literary material to eventually make the real estate business a profession, he said.

"The real estate broker has handled the property owner's battle long enough," Mr. Zimmerman said, "and it is time that we had property owners' divisions in our real estate boards. Then we will cease having to pay his bill."

Mr. Wolfenden thanked the speaker. He realized, he said, that the board should concentrate on getting land owners into it.

Nora Norris, charged with keeping liquor for sale, was called before Magistrate Jay in city police court this morning, but failed to appear. A warrant has been issued for her arrest.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., of the First United Church, returned to the city this morning from Toronto, where he has been on church business.

The superannuation committee of the City Council will meet the inside employees of the City Hall on Monday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock to discuss superannuation matters.

For riding another youth on the bar of his bicycle, Fred Sanford was fined $5 in the city police court this morning. Magistrate Jay warned him against the dangerous practice.

W. S. Richards, an English organist who is visiting the city, will give an organ recital at St. John's Church on an evening, September 27. Mr. Richards is an organist of wide experience, and will be heard in an attractive programme of organ classics.

The principal and staff of the North Ward School extend an invitation to all teachers of Victoria and district to attend an "at home" to be held in the school to-night at 8 o'clock. On this occasion they will have the opportunity of hearing Miss Kate Stevens of Tillingham Park Girls' School, London.

The thirteen-year-old boy who recently broke into the Victoria garage, stole a car and a cash register, was sent to the Vancouver Industrial School yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Jay. He will be a ward of the Juvenile Court until he becomes of age.

After a very successful tour through the Western States and Canada, the Australian National Band is returning to Victoria, and will give two farewell concerts in the Crystal Garden on September 21. The band will return to Australia and then will tour Africa, later going to compete at the Crystal Palace for the championship of the British Isles.

As the Rev. Dr. McCrossan, of the Christian and Missionary Alliance fourfold gospel work is this week speaking in Vancouver, the Rev. Dr. Newberry, district superintendent, is expected to take the meeting at King's Hall here this evening at 8 o'clock. He is also intending, by request of the local committee of management, to stay over to conduct meetings in the King's Hall on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Walter Walsh was fined $10 for failing to stop his motorcycle behind a street car which had stopped at the intersection of Cook and Fort Streets on September 11 at 7.30 p.m., to allow a lady passenger to board, when he appeared in the police court this morning. Constable James Patterson said he saw the accused ride past when the woman was about to climb aboard the car. The accused said when he passed the car the woman was on the sidewalk. His Honor found him guilty.

WOMAN HELD FOR MANIPULATION OF FUNDS IN TRUST

Alleged falsification of Document Brings Widow, Remarried, to Court

Mrs. Minnie Estella Ferguson, arrested yesterday morning in South Vancouver and charged with an infringement of the Land Registry Act, was arraigned before Magistrate Jay in city police court this morning. She was remanded until Friday next and released on $500 bail, in two sureties. The charge read against Mrs. Ferguson was a felony on the charge sheet it reads as follows: "That on June 27 the said Minnie Estella Ferguson in a transaction relating to land, to-wit, a document purporting to be a conveyance of land from Hugh James Elliott to said Minnie Estella Ferguson, unlawfully and knowingly and with intent to deceive, was privy to the making of a material false statement, to-wit, the false statement that Hugh James Elliott was of the full age of twenty-one years, whereas, in truth and in fact, the said Hugh James Elliott was not of the age of twenty-one years, to the knowledge of the said Minnie Estella Ferguson."

NO NEW U.S. BAN ON TRANSOCEAN FLIGHTS

Washington Points to Need of Experience and Best Possible Equipment

Washington, Sept. 16.—Science and the pioneering instinct have won a victory over risks of life, in United States today, as the co-ordination committee having decided against any federal ban on transoceanic flights in land aeroplanes.

The committee, composed of the three air secretaries of the War, Navy and Commerce Departments, rendered its decision after a meeting at the Navy Department yesterday. The conference was called at President Coolidge's request to consider the situation resulting from the loss of life in recent overwater flights in land planes.

In a joint statement the three assistant secretaries, recognizing the hazards, declared such flights should be discouraged "except when undertaken by personnel competent to measure the risks involved, with the most careful preparation and with the best possible equipment."

They favored airplanes or flying boats for overseas use, and declared they were satisfied public opinion would "impose restrictions on the offering of any direct incentive for the making of exceptionally hazardous flights without requirement of reasonable precautions."

RIGHT MEN NEEDED IN FOREIGN TRADE, SAYS O. K. DAVIS

North American Concerns Must Get Best Representatives Abroad, Council Told

The supreme need of North American concerns which want to secure business abroad is the right kind of representatives in foreign fields, O. K. Davis, Secretary of the National Foreign Trade Council, told delegates to the Pacific Foreign Trade Council convention at the Empress Hotel to-day. The ability, integrity and personality of foreign representatives, he said, will largely determine the success of this continent's effort to increase its foreign trade. Without the right kind of men selling it, even the best product has a poor chance abroad, Mr. Davis declared.

"Not long ago a New England banker called me by phone one afternoon and said, 'I have a police court case against me for my judgment a proposed contract with an agent who asserted great ability to sell the customers goods in China,' Mr. Davis said. 'This would be a good thing for me, but the manufacturer that he was in partnership with in Shanghai with a man who had been doing business in China for thirty-five or more years, and knew that market thoroughly, in every angle. The contract called for an advance and a drawing account. The banker didn't like that sort of contract, and didn't know anything about the agent or his Shanghai partner. He asked if I could get him any information. In less than half an hour I was able to tell him back and tell him that it was quite true the Shanghai man had been in China for thirty-five or more years, and that he had been doing business of one sort and another there most of that time, when he had not been in jail.'"

"Oh, good Lord," said the banker, and I fancy that particular contract was not signed.

CAUTION URGED

"From what I hear our manufacturers all over the country are meeting men more or less like that agent in New England, and that is doing, of course I do not mean in any sense to imply that every man who calls on you and gives you a hot line about his ability to handle your product in some far away field is a jail-bird, or the partner of one. Often they are probably first rate men, and can really do a good job for you. But what I do want to enforce upon your attention, as strongly as possible, is the desirability, more, the imperative importance of looking into every such case with extreme caution and thoroughness."

"I don't know how many American concerns are doing for foreign business to some extent. Maybe thirty thousand, maybe forty thousand perhaps fifty thousand. There are many more, but I am not sure. Manufacturing concerns in the United States which annually turn out a product valued at more than $5,000. The Department of Commerce lists of foreign traders number, I have been told, more than thirty thousand names. Some of these manufacturers are regularly in the business, as a matter of carefully considered and well reasoned deliberate policy. It is just as much a part of their business to sell in foreign markets as in the domestic field. Which is of course as it should be. There are many others who are still, unfortunately, ins and outs, sometimes trying a bit of export, and sometimes giving attention only to the domestic field. There are others who sell abroad only through export houses, and sometimes do not even know that any of their product goes out of the country. No rule can be made applicable to all these."

AVOIDING CARELESSNESS

"Then, again, there are scores of concerns which make the same lines of goods. Some big, some little and some middle-sized. Some of them sell as widely abroad as they can, others in only a few markets. Some confine themselves, for instance, to Latin America, others to Australia and New Zealand, others wholly to Europe, and some to the Far East. It is impossible to standardize their practice under any general rule except that of care and caution. To paraphrase an old proverb, 'Wisdom goeth before a fall, and often prevents it. Carelessness goeth before a fall, and often promotes it.'"

"You hear a great deal of discussion as to the nationality of foreign representatives for American concerns. Put

TENDERS CALLED FOR ADDITION AT BIG SANITARIUM

Province to Have Accommodation For 335 Beds in Tranquille

Will be Able to Treat 400 Patients in Special Wards

Tenders for new additions to Tranquille Sanatorium, which have been under consideration by the Government for some months, were called by the Provincial Public Works Department to-day. The work will be pressed ahead as rapidly as possible to provide new accommodation for tuberculosis patients.

The new Tranquille programme represents the latest step in an effective campaign against tuberculosis conducted by the Government ever since it took office. When the additions to the institution outside Kamloops are complete the Province will be well abreast of the problem, officials believe.

ADD HUNDRED BEDS

Altogether 100 beds will be accommodated in the new hospital to be built at Tranquille. These beds will be housed in an entirely new building to be constructed on the most modern lines and thoroughly equipped. A new building for the staff and a house for the medical superintendent also are planned as part of the scheme. Additions to the central laundry equipment will be installed, following the expansion of the heating and power plant to provide for the new building.

RAPID PROGRESS SEEN

This will make it possible for Tranquille to accommodate 335 patients, and, in addition, the tuberculosis ward established by the provincial authorities at the Vancouver General Hospital can handle eighty patients, a total of more than 400. Ten years ago, before the present Government took hold of the problem, the Province had no central public-health institution for the cure of tuberculosis.

OBITUARY

The funeral of the late Lionel Harrison, who was accidentally killed on September 14 at Duncan, B.C., will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Thompson Funeral Home. The late Mr. Harrison was a native of Manchester, England, aged twenty-eight years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Florence Harrison, his father, Frederick W. Harrison, now in England, two brothers, Richard E. and James Harrison of Victoria, also one sister, Miss P. A. Harrison, of this city. The remains will be laid to rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

CONVENTION NOTES

Robert McKee, chairman of the Vancouver Board of Trade, was chairman of the session this morning. After expressing his appreciation of the honor, he said he was proud of his board of trade and its thirty-five members. Two years ago when the Pacific Foreign Trade Council was held in Seattle, Vancouver had forty-six delegates. At this convention they had sixty-five, he mentioned.

Victoria's welcome to the delegates is the source of much comment. The drive provided for the ladies yesterday morning in the city hall, the Parliament Buildings, the Post Office and the City Hall, in a blaze of light at night, present a fitting convention touch to the city.

Douglas P. Miller, U.S. trade commissioner, came from Berlin to speak at to-day's meeting. Incidentally his home is in Colorado, and he is a Rhodes Scholar. After a couple of months in Manchuria, a winter in Siberia, he visited Victoria once in the war days. "I thought I had dropped in on heaven," he said. "If I had a harp and a clear conscience I would have been sure of it."

RUTH SCORES

New York, Sept. 16.—Babe Ruth banged out his fifty-third homer of the season to-day in the third inning of the game between the Yankees and the White Sox. The hit came with bases empty and Blankenship tossing.

U.S.-FRENCH TARIFF DISCUSSION HALTED

France Asks Concessions Washington Government is Unable to Give Republic

Washington, Sept. 16.—Apparently at an impasse in the negotiations for a new most favored nation commercial treaty to remove French tariff barriers against United States goods, France and the United States to-day faced a difficult status in their governmental trade relations which in the view of some American officials verged toward the possible development of a tariff war between the two countries.

While it was declared at the States Department there would be little delay in the formulation of the American reply to the rejection by France of the new commercial agreement proposed by the United States, little solution of the situation was promised by the French government. As the Tariff Act prohibits the negotiation of treaties on any basis in connection with tariffs except with equal treatment for all nations, this limitation upon the powers of the President is expected to prevent acceptance of the French proposals.

SURPRISE EXPRESSED

The French communication was withheld from publication under the rule of courtesy that requires opportunity for simultaneous publication of such communications by the origination government. But although the Washington officials had no opportunity for detailed consideration of the note, astonishment was indicated by them

LARGER RAILWAY BOARD IS URGED

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—Appointment of a prairie farmer to the Railway Commission in place of Commissioner A. C. Boyce, whose term will expire in October, is being urged by the Canadian Council of Agriculture in a communication forwarded to the Federal Government. The Council also suggests the membership of the board should be enlarged from six to seven, and that at least three members should be from Western Canada.

RELAYS FOR EMERGENCY

If a long-distance line from Deventry to any of the pick-up broadcast stations in England went out of order, that relay station could continue the Deventry programme by means of an emergency set. This consists of a receiver connected to the station's transmitting equipment.

ITS KILOCYCLES THERE

England, too, is turning to the use of "kilocycles" instead of wavelengths. But popular usage, as here, is hard to overcome.

BASEBALL, BOXING

Tunney Not Thrilled
Over His Fight With
Dempsey Thursday

Just Going Out to Prove That
His Last Win Over Dempsey
Was No Fluke

Certain of Victory, Challenger Regains Some of His Old Scowling Ferocity

Lake Villa, Ill., Sept. 16.—One of the greatest moments in Gene Tunney's life is less than a week away, yet the prospect does not especially thrill him. "Strangely enough, the greatest kick the fight gave me came, not in my defeat of Jack Dempsey last fall, nor when my hand was raised in victory at the close of my first professional fight with Dan O'Dowd in Jersey City," the heavyweight champion said today.

"My greatest moment came in April, 1919, in France. I had fought my way to the finals of the A.E.F. tournament, a series of elimination boxing matches to determine the best fighting men at their weights in the army."

"I fought Ted Hamilton for the championship at 170 pounds. I won and the victory was the sweetest, the most thrilling of my life."

MUST PROVE HIS WORTH

"Next Thursday night in Soldier Field, I'll fight Dempsey again. I'm confident of victory at Philadelphia last fall. This time I am certain. To me the fight offers the opportunity of finishing the job I started then. This time I must knock out Dempsey to prove that there is no question of my superiority, that I am a real champion and that I did not win my title on a fluke."

Proud of his standing as heavyweight champion, Tunney admitted that the scowling that greeted him on his one-sided victory over Dempsey last fall, hurt him deeply.

Gene entered the final three days of intensive training to-day feeling better than ever.

Lincoln, Ill., Sept. 16.—Jack Dempsey is the champion of the world in the set-to-against the last of the six, but Kruger managed to last out the round. The German caught two of those left hooks followed up by a right in the midsection which dropped him on the ropes.

In strange contrast to these two periods of furious attack, Dempsey allowed "Big Boy" Peterson to throw gloves at him for nearly half of their round, apparently studying the rangy New Orleans heavyweight up by his right to the midsection which dropped him on the ropes.

Peterson stabbed the former with several lefts to the head and twice connected with right uppercuts. Dempsey decided to start the attack. From then on Peterson was in full retreat, but he had outscored Dempsey when their round ended.

GOES AT FULL SPEED

Perhaps it was this realization that sent Jack into full speed against Allen, who followed Peterson into the ring, for Allen was on the floor before the round was half over.

Allentown Joe Gans and Roy Williams followed Allen and gave Dempsey his best workout of the evening. The two lighter boxers shot in many left hooks without any return but Jack kept weaving into close quarters with them.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Gene Tunney's reach is long, in fact it is longer than the long arm of the law. The champion proved to-day when the sheriff of Cook County made an effort to serve a summons on the champion without success.

Sheriff Charles E. Graydon said his office was eager to serve a summons on Mr. Tunney in connection with the $15,000 breach of contract suit filed against the boxer by Thomas J. McFadden of New York, who said he was at one time Mr. Tunney's social secretary.

He confronted a geographical difficulty, however. The champion has his camp in Lake County and the jurisdiction of the sheriff's office is only in Cook County.

The sheriff said if he did not get a chance to serve the summons before the night of the big fight he would have someone waiting at Tunney's dressing room at the scene of the battle.

New York, Sept. 16.—Seventeen airplanes will take off at half-minute intervals from Hadley Field, N.J., next Thursday morning, winging into a giant "V" formation and heading toward Chicago carrying New York's millionaire fight fans to the Dempsey-Tunney bout.

It will be the largest squadron of ships ever assembled for a similar purpose.

Snell Loses on Points

New York, Sept. 16.—In a fast and furious ten rounds of slugfests, Joe Glick, of New York, last night won the decision over Snell, of Tacoma, Washington. Snell weighed 130½ and Glick 130. Glick spent his time piling up points, while Snell spent his trying for a knockout.

Louiey Finnegan, Boston lightweight, took the decision over Billy Grimes, of Australia, in ten rounds. Neither was in danger of a bad shape. Finnegan weighed 130; Grimes 127½.

FINE BUCK, WEIGHING
168 POUNDS, KILLED
WITH A SHOTGUN

Archie Doherty went hunting for deer yesterday at Jordan River, and was very successful in bagging a splendid specimen, that tips the scales at 168 pounds.

He killed the deer with a shotgun at a range of about twenty-five yards. Doherty also got him a limit of blue grouse.

Juniors Ready For
Titular Lacrosse
Contest To-morrow

Maple Leafs, Vancouver, Play
Oaklands, Local Champs;
Expect Good Game

Much interest has been aroused over the lacrosse match which is to be played to-morrow afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park between the Oaklands School and the Maple Leafs of Vancouver. These teams will meet in a sudden death game for the junior championship of British Columbia.

Bob McInnes has groomed his boys at Oaklands this season and has them in splendid shape for their match to-morrow. They have plenty of speed and endurance and are a husky looking crowd of boys. The age limit for junior competition is 16 years and under.

The Maple Leafs have a fine record but will have their work cut out to win to-morrow.

WANT BIG TURNOUT

The boys look for a big turnout of fans in order to encourage them in their efforts.

Manager McInnes announces his line-up as follows: Goal, Bridgwood; point, Cochran; cover point, C. Chapman; first defence, home, McKinnon; inside home, Duckworth; third home, Miller; second home, A. Chapman; first home, Wilmond; second home, McKinnon; inside home, Johnson; spares, Vigars, McMillan and Partington.

NEED VICTORY TO WIN CRICKET TITLE

Last Matches of Season in Senior League Will be Played To-morrow

If the University Incogs win their match to-morrow against the Victoria Cricket Club, they will win the championship of the Victoria and District Cricket League. At the present time the Incogs are leading the league by a single game over the Albions.

Should the leaders suffer defeat to-morrow and the Albions win the two teams will be tied for the championship, and this will mean a play-off match. The Albions will tackle Victoria at the University grounds while the Garrison and Five C's will meet at Ketchikan Hill.

To-morrow's games are the final matches on the league schedule. The Incogs will field a strong team and will be expected to win. The Albions, on the other hand, will be expected to come through with a victory that will give them the title. They won the Victoria Cup, emblematic of the title, last year and are keen to repeat.

Women Start Play
For U.S. Golf Title
Monday at New York

New York, Sept. 16.—Feminine golf stars to the number of 148, representing all parts of the United States, are expected to start the championship of the United States Women's Golf Association at the Cherry Valley Club, Garden City, N.Y., next Monday.

Mrs. Henry Fressler, of Los Angeles, who recently won the women's Western championship, will be paired with Miss Marie R. Jenney, of Yonkers, N.Y. Miss Glenn Collette, twice former champion with Miss Dorothy Brown Page, of Madison, Wis.

Miss de la Chaux, French and British women's champion, will be paired with Miss Virginia Van Winkle, of Chicago.

Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, who has won the championship for England, Canada and the United States, will play with the Metropolitan champion, Miss Maureen O'Connell, of Hawthorn, N.J.

The qualifying round of eighteen holes will be followed by the match play rounds, one a day, also at eighteen holes until Saturday, when the final match will be played between the two long range of thirty-six holes.

Softball

In a sudden-death game to decide the winners of the second half of the "D" section of the Softball League the Five C's and Hudson's Bay will meet to-night at Central Park, weather permitting. The game is scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock.

The winner of to-night's game will meet the Foresters to-morrow for the championship of the "D" section.

Castle Crown, in First Race,
Only Horse to Pay Double
Figures, $13.95

First and Second Public
Choices Gallop Home Good
Winners in Other Events

Colwood Race Track, Sept. 16.—The money bags had to be shared up a lot more at the Colwood track yesterday as a result of the public choices finding their right stride and breezing home at the head of their fields.

On Wednesday several good prices, including Harry T's $69.00, were paid and, as a result, the money went back into fewer hands than was the case yesterday when more folks had the thrill of cashing in.

THE TOP FIGURE

Castle's Crown paid $13.95 to win the first race and that was the only double-figure of the day. Blue Miss placed at $9.00 in the fourth race and Cleo's Rochester was good for $7.00 in winning the third race while Lawrence won the fifth race for a similar payment.

Outside of Castle Crown the first or second choices of the public got down in front.

The day was perfect for good racing, with the track in splendid shape and the weather ideal.

OUTSIDERS HOME IN FIRST

Falling heir to the lead, when Cas Welch and Black Sand, the favorite, went wide on the stretch, Castle Crown, bay mare from the Canyon, came up to take the lead and won by a head of one and one-half lengths.

Valentine rode the winner who returned her nose money $13.95 for third all the way until taking the lead on the stretch. Black Sand and Cas Welch fought the race between them, but the latter went wide in the stretch, taking Black Sand with him. Neither had enough speed left to overhaul Castle Crown.

The remainder of the field were never in the running.

The second event was purely a favorite's race and no price was higher than $5.00. Slipper to Slipper, starting a 5-10 favorite, repeated her performance of Tuesday to win by half a length. She ran against practically the same field as last time, but she cut and showed she still had the edge on them. Jim Rogan led for most of the distance and opened up a large gap, only to find her in the stretch, making challenge, getting the place. Master Somers was unable to keep up to the pace after chasing Jim Rogan for the first part and lost the show to Kiki by a length.

ANOTHER REPEATER

A repeater was also the winner in the third race, Cleo's Rochester, who won the seventh event Monday, taking the honors by a length. Broadfoot rode the winner, kept her mount well in hand, and took the lead from Lawnmower turning off the back stretch. Lawnmover set the early pace, but lost the lead to the favorite, and again he got through, but was headed off in the stretch. Greelking ran well up all the way and was easily good enough for third. Lawnmover returned $7.00 for $2 to place.

Coming from behind in the stretch, Snively, the favorite, ran around the field, kept her mount well in hand, and came in the fourth race. Blue Miss was second and Sinova third. All three money horses came from behind on the stretch, but Snively was the winner by a head of one and one-half lengths.

A CLOSE FINISH

A thrilling close finish featured the fifth race, Lawrence getting a hairline decision over Irish Jockey. It was the first time since the day for Jockey Balentine, who hustled his mount continually and got into the lead, turning off the back stretch. In the drive to the finish, Snively was just managed to keep away from Irish Jockey. Dark Ages ran a creditable race to take third place, and was always well in the running.

Snively, the favorite, ran around the field, kept her mount well in hand, and came in the fourth race. Blue Miss was second and Sinova third. All three money horses came from behind on the stretch, but Snively was the winner by a head of one and one-half lengths.

PUBLIC WIN

After leading from the barrier, Herbert, cheating from the Springing Door stable, failed to hold up on the hill in the sixth race and let Theima C. and Ping Pong pass him to match first and second places respectively. Theima C. was an even-moneyed favorite and scored a popular win with Jockey Roberts in the saddle. Ping Pong came from fourth place to second, while Herbert was easily good enough for the show. Ping Pong, the popular Jockey De Ford riding, held on to the lead for most of the distance, but tired in the stretch, finishing fifth.

In the concluding race the horses broke home in the order the public picked them. Lady Fennell was the class of the race and Bernice E ran second. Pat Mabrey finished third after a long lead part of the way. Take in racing.

The results were as follows:

"FATHOMING GERMAN SECRETS OF WAR"

The first of a remarkable series of articles with startling revelations and tense adventures in the dangerous business of

"SPYING ON SPIES"

Will Start Saturday in The Victoria Daily Times

It is a narrative as unusual as it is enthralling and presents the Great War from an hitherto unexposed angle—the angle of the hidden, unremitting, deadly warfare behind the war.

The other articles of the series are as follows—

II.

"THE RUSS THAT SAVED THE ALLIES ON THE SEA"

The crucial part played by "Q-Boats" disguised as freighters and British officers as tramp sailors, when Germany all but won the war.

III.

"INVISIBLE ARTIFICE BROUGHT TO LIGHT"

A chemical warfare of ink and writing, cryptic painting and an annihilating pencil.

IV.

"MILITARY MESSAGES IN BARS OF MUSIC"

A bewildering stroke in the game of guile—the immensity and intricacy of the German Secret Service.

V.

"THE MOST DANGEROUS SPY OF MODERN TIMES"

Irma Staub, the beautiful "Dark Shadow," "The Demon," and a game of life and death for French air diagrams

VI.

"A DUEL OF WITS WITH THE QUEEN OF SPIES"

Pursuit of the beautiful, dangerous Irma Staub, with her companion bearing stolen prints of French air plans.

VII.

"SPIKING A GERMAN DASH THROUGH SWITZERLAND"

A plan of incalculable importance turning on a glimpse of a single motion of the beautiful spy-queen's hand.

VIII.

"SMASHING A PLOT TO RUIN FRANCE"

Two Frenchmen impersonating two Germans impersonating Frenchmen and a dark-trail that led to the house of pitfalls and perilous revelation.

DELEGATES INTRODUCED AT BANQUET

Delegates to the Pacific Foreign Trade Council convention were introduced to Canadian and American delegates at a get-together banquet at the Empress Hotel last night, which proved a great success.

Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce extended a welcome not only to the Province itself, but to Canada itself. Many delegates were here for the first time, and he understood that eighteen different countries were represented. It was no wonder that Victoria was proud of being selected for such a noteworthy convention. Canada being so much younger than the country from which they came they would find much to interest them, but they would find Canada was the same in that it had the same traditions and was imbued with the same ambitions. It was fitting that the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, the first time it held its convention outside of the United States should hold it in the neighboring country of Canada. Canada appreciated the strong international feeling being held out by the big country of 120,000,000 people to its neighbor with 10,000,000 people.

STRENGTHENING RACE

Touching upon the peace and friendship between the two countries, His Honor said that this convention was the more step towards cementing that peace perhaps more deeply and wisely than they at present realized.

William Pigott, president of the Pacific Foreign Trade Council, was first introduced by the hostmaster. No man on the Pacific Coast had done more to establish the delightful friendship and friendly relations between Canada and the United States in his unostentatious way than Mr. Pigott, said Mr. Schweigert. Increasing activity of the United States in the role of international financier and relationship to the future development of American foreign trade was the subject of an address by Charles F. Mills, vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston.

He referred to the striking transaction of the United States in the last ten years from a debtor to a creditor nation. It was the war really that forced the United States into Europe as a lending nation. Before that they were not interested in this field, and to be frank they seldom had the spare cash to become interested in the European field.

This would, however, have been impossible but for the Federal Reserve Act, which provided for short term financing and the rapid accumulation of capital, which had taken place in the United States in the last ten years and had turned New York from one of the most expensive to one of the cheapest money markets in the world. Banks from all parts of the world were applying to United States banks for short term financing, and foreign trade was being helped by dollar credits to a greater extent than ever before. The United States was the one great free gold market of the world.

Seven in Ten Men Past 40 Need This Special Treatment

For Amazing and Lasting Relief From Middle-Age Ailments That Cause
Daily Annoyance and Sap
Vital Force

No longer need men near or past the prime of life put up with those painful and often embarrassing conditions brought on by overworked, sluggish kidneys, bladder weakness and prostate gland trouble, with their distressing symptoms of Leucorrhea, Pains in back and down through groins, scanty but frequent and burning urination. "Getting-up-Nights," Nervous Irritability and lack of force—because a ten-day test of Dr. Southworth's URATABLE will convince the most skeptical of the value of this special treatment for their particular case.

Amusing testimony of Physicians and users gives convincing proof of the power of URATABLE to restore Health and Strength to a weakened, inflamed or irritated bladder and Urinary Tract. A multitude of alarming symptoms seem to quickly disappear—and you see and feel a truly genuine improvement often within two or three days. No more Backaches, no more pain, no more embarrassment or "getting-up-nights." I now sleep soundly, and set up in the morning full of "pep," thanks to URATABLE.

While new to the general public, the wondrous value of URATABLE has been thoroughly proven by nearly 40 years of successful use in the private practice of Dr. R. C. Southworth. And now any good druggist will supply them on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Try URATABLE today. (Adv.)

Two Young Men
Held For Robbery

New York, Sept. 16.—The capture of two young men who had chloroformed and robbed her of $1,000 in cash and jewelry in an upper Broadway Hotel Saturday, was credited by police today to Miss Cordie Harvey, twenty-five, the daughter of a wealthy coal operator of Rhode Island, West Virginia. Doing without sleep for almost three days, the young woman combed the city with detectives, visiting tenement districts and inspecting the rogues' gallery at police headquarters before she disguised herself and picked out one youth in Pennsylvania Terminal, and another on a street corner in "Hell's Kitchen."

Edward Kelly, twenty-two, and Paul Jeffries, twenty-three, both waiters,

At the E.P. ranch
there is only the best of everything--- and naturally---a new Orthophonic Victrola---
Illustration reproduced from actual photograph

An Orthophonic Victrola is perfectly at home anywhere.

Here you see it among the latest improvements recently installed in the living room at H. R. H. The Prince of Wales' ranch at High River, Alberta where only the finest is in evidence.

In this comfortable room,—after a busy day inspecting his lands and stock, the Prince was wont to refresh himself with Victor music from his fine record library. Here the Orthophonic Victrola entertained the guests of royalty. And here, through the long winter it will bring comfort and cheer to those who remain to care for the ranch,—ready to greet the Prince with his favorite music when he returns for another visit.

Any home is a brighter, cheerier place, with Orthophonic Victrola music,—be it ranch, farm, cottage or apartment. There are seven beautiful models—all different in design—from $775.00 down to as low as $115.00,—and every one obtainable on convenient payments from His Master's Voice dealers.

OUR SERIAL STORY

"The Wife & Co."

By LYLE HAMILTON

CHAPTER XXVIII

Mr. Frazier returned to the office with a thick sheaf of bills. "Not much in the safe, but five and ten," he said, closing the door.

He counted off the banknotes one by one, onto the top of his desk. Molly got up to watch. Mary Holmquist did not rise, but strained forward intently in her chair. When he was done he wrote a few lines on a piece of scratch paper, and passed the sheet to little Sweden.

"Sign it," he said. "It's a receipt."

Her hand shook but she managed to write her name—her maiden name—at the bottom. After a moment's thought she added the word "Mrs." in parenthesis.

"Now there's only one thing I want you to do," he said, as he passed the bulky heap of bills to Mary. "When you give this to your husband, I want you to tell him that I lent it to you. He knows you have no money of your own, doesn't he?"

"He knows it now," she said. Her writing was done as she thrust the money into the beaded sack. She got up and offered her hand to the man, her eyes brimming with gratitude. "There isn't any way in the world I can thank you. But I do thank you. You're good and kind—"

Her voice caught, and she did not finish the sentence. As she stood in the doorway, ready to go, she added, however: "Please ask the cashier to take the ten dollars out of my salary before he gives it to me. If I get it I'm afraid I'll spend it!"

Mr. Frazier laid his hand on Molly's arm as she prepared to follow. He waited until little Sweden had passed through the outer door before he spoke.

"Want to hear a prophecy?" he asked then, a faint smile at the corners of his mouth.

"Yes, what?"

"I'll bet a forty-dollar hat against a bum cigar," said he, "that in three hours a certain little blonde will be a widow—without knowing it."

"You don't mean he'll kill himself?"

"Him? Not a chance! But he'll buy a ticket on a railroad train and go away from here. As sure as I'm an elk!" He peeled one of the leaves from his loose cigar. "I've seen fellows like him before—rotten little rats! He thought he was catching a rich girl. When he found out she was a bluffer, too, he tried another dodge—told her a fable about the police being after him. He knew enough about the money or perish in the attempt."

"And will he desert her?"

"It's dollars and cents that he will. A fellow like that doesn't want a useless woman hanging around. He can go somewhere else and get married again."

"It's awfully kind of you to let her keep her job, after this," she said.

He raised his eyebrows. "Keep her job? She's a good stenographer—and the rest of us do enough fool things of our own not to throw rocks at a poor little noodle who has made a bad guess." He chuckled. "Remember when I offered you a thousand dollars to get away from here and let Brownell alone?"

Her face fell as she nodded assent. It wasn't a nice thing to remember.

"Well, I'm investing five hundred in getting rid of another incubance."

He broke off the conversation and strolled out to look over the mail, which had just arrived. Molly caught his eye as she went out the door, but he only nodded without responding to her smile.

"The old bear!" said Molly to herself as she descended the steps into the street.

The new apartment was a long way from the office, but Molly decided to walk. She had passed one day in her home, alone—nobody to talk to, no bustle and clatter of an office surrounding her, no procession of interesting people to see as they came in and out the door.

For three years she had been part of the business life in New York. Now her days were to be spent within the walls of three rooms in an apartment building. She must find her entertainment in washing dishes, and cleaning, and sewing, and cooking. Instead of gossiping, giggling fellow—typists around her, there would be only the silent dresser, and the couch, and the chairs, and the stove.

By an impulse, she turned from the direct route to the apartment and found a bench in the park. A score or so of shabby men were seated there, reading newspapers, or yawning, or dozing. They paid no attention to her. Nobody has less of an eye for a pretty girl than the battered vagrants who lounge in public places.

Molly sat for an hour, looking about her and thinking. Her red lips drooped a little, and more than once she breathed a heavy sigh. She could not go to visit any of her girl friends; all the girls she knew were at work, now. It was still too early in the day for a satisfactory movie. The only person of her acquaintance who could possibly be at home now was Mrs. Potter.

With sudden decision Molly arose and started briskly toward the flat where she had spent two long years.

At the foot of the long stair, Molly pressed upon the bell-button three times, very slowly. This was the landlady's call. The latch clicked, and Molly stepped inside.

"Who is it and what do you want?" came Mrs. Potter's voice from above.

"It's me," answered the girl, brightly, as she started to ascend the flight.

The woman waited for her on the landing. "What's the idea of coming sailing this time in the morning? Haven't you anything to do at home?"

Molly, a trifle breathless—she had walked more than a mile before she started up the stair—leaned against the wall. "Aren't you going to invite me in?"

"No," said Mrs. Potter. "My bed's upset and my kitchen's upset and I'm upset. I'm always upset this time in the morning. What do you want?"

"Well—oh, don't act as if I was an enemy of yours!" Molly retained her smile. "I was down town and I got to thinking of those lonesome rooms in my apartment, and I just had to have some company, so I thought I'd come to see you."

"Complimentary, I'm sure," Mrs. Potter was rigidly blocking the way. "Can't find anybody else to entertain you, so I'll have to do! Thanks."

Molly had known this woman a long time, so she did not lose her temper. "Don't you want to hear about Mr. Frazier and Mary Holmquist?"

"What about 'em?"

"He lent her five hundred dollars, and he says her husband's a fraud and that the police aren't after him at all! He thinks this man'll take the five hundred and run away from Mary. An idea came to me, Molly. 'Is my old room rented yet?'"

"Rented twice. But one girl showed up with too many clothes—looked pretty gaudy to me, and she left her key again. The other girl came and got her deposit back—said she's going home."

"How'd you like to rent the room to Mary?"

"What for?"

"Well, she and another girl live in a lot more expensive place. She's got to pay ten dollars a week to Mr. Frazier, now. She'll have to save money."

"Mrs. Potter was non-committal. "Shall I ask her to come and see you?"

"Let's see." The landlady cast her eyes to the ceiling and ruminated. "Giddy blonde, but tied down now—won't gad around much for a few weeks. Rum! Works steady, I suppose."

She returned her gaze to Molly. "Yes, tell her to come see me if she wants to. Now you run along—I can't entertain lonesome wives, I've got other things to attend to."

She turned her back and entered her kitchen, slamming the door. Molly trudged down the stair again, and out into the street.

Now, however, she had something definite to do. She set out for the office, walking so swiftly that her pink cheeks were red. Little Sweden would be back at her desk by this time, and Molly could tell her of the room at Mrs. Potter's.

The new Mrs. Brownell smiled as she pushed upon the familiar door. Passing through the small vestibule she entered the main office. To the right was the cashier's cage, where the sour-faced old man and his two assistants humped over their books. To the left was a small raised enclosure in which the visitors waited, just outside the space where Stick sat.

She was about to pass through the swinging gate when the office manager saw her, smiled, and came forward.

"Was there somebody you wanted to see, Mrs. Brownell?" he inquired.

"It just dropped in to see Mary Holmquist a minute," she explained, holding the gate ajar.

Stick cleared his throat. "Would

Grain Exchange Elects New Head

Winnipeg, Sept. 16.—E. W. Kneeland, general manager of the British American Elevator Company, was elected president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange by acclamation at the annual meeting of the exchange this afternoon. J. A. Crowe, British Empire Grain Company and W. A. Murphy of the Smith Murphy Company, were elected vice-presidents.

A. Thompson, retiring president, made reference in his address to the members of the exchange, to the Campbell amendment to the Canada Grain Act, which would allow farmers to designate the destination of their grain. It was the retiring president's opinion that much depended on the interpretation and enforcement of the bill as to whether it would have any effect on the country elevator system. The second amendment, referring to the inspection of grain at Moose Jaw was also mentioned, the interpretation of which was considered doubtful, but was liable to add considerable to the cost of handling if it meant that all grain coming through Moose Jaw was to be inspected and handled there. Pool handling and selling methods were discussed at the meeting.

He: "Yes, I come of old-fashioned parents; my mother had only one husband."

VITAL STATISTICS

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—Canadian marriages are increasing. During February last 4,222 marriages were recorded in the Dominion, an increase of 327 over February, 1926. The total of 4,323 is a record for all the years from and including 1921.

Births in Canada during February last showed a decrease of 1,101, as compared with February, 1926. During February 17,181 births were recorded, while in February, 1926, the total was 18,282.

Of the total this year Quebec's share was 6,046, leaving 11,135 for the other provinces. The falling off was divided between all nine provinces. Twins numbered 232, while there were three sets of triplets in which all children were born alive.

The general mortality rate in February last totaled 0.746, representing an increase of 3 per cent over February, 1926.

The simplest method of settling an argument is to hold your tongue.

Mother of Eleven Children Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Her Interesting Experience

Buckingham, Quebec. "I am the mother of eleven living children, and my baby is five months old. I am only 35 years old and I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and my nerves. I know of it from my sister, Dame Edouard Bellefeuille of Ramsayville. For five years I was in misery and was always ready to cry. Now I am so happy to have good health. My daughter, who is 18 years old, has also taken it and will be happy to recommend it to all young girls." —DAME WILLIAM PARKER, Box 414, Buckingham, Quebec.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will give you relief?

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 250,000 replies were received and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

BEDTIME STORY
Uncle Wiggily and the Sand Shower
Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate
(By Howard E. Garth)

Slowly the Bear shuffled closer and closer to Uncle Wiggily. The shaggy bad chap had caught the rabbit gentleman, you remember, as I told you in last night's story, when he was out looking for an adventure and Wumpie, the yellow Woggie boy, had taken off his legs, tail, head—in fact, Wumpie had taken himself all apart to show how smart he was. Wumpie lay like a pile of kindling wood on the moss while the Bear got ready to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"If only Wumpie had kept himself together and left his head on his neck, he might have gone for the Police Dog to help me," sadly thought the rabbit gentleman as he saw the Bear shuffling nearer and nearer.

But what was that? Like the faint blowing of the wind a voice seemed to whisper:

"Don't be afraid, Uncle Wiggily! I'll help you! I'll save you from the Bear!"

The voice seemed to come from Wumpie's yellow head and face lying there on the moss, apart from his body. For the Woggie boy, being made of wood, you know, could take themselves apart without any harm.

"What was that?" started the Bear, looking toward the pile of wood that once had been jolly Wumpie. "Who spoke?"

Uncle Wiggily pointed to the wooden head, and the Bear looked over his shoulder and laughed, for he was standing with his back to the loose pieces of the Woggie boy's head.

"Ha! Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed the Bear. "Do you expect me to believe that? A pile of wood talking! Nonsense!"

"No nonsense about it!" said Uncle Wiggily. "That pile of wood as you call it, was once Wumpie Woggie and he might have saved me!"

"Well, he can't save you now!" growled the Bear, who knew nothing of Woggie boy. "Nothing can save you. I am going to nibble you and that's all there is to it. All I have to decide is how to nibble first. I think I will try the left one."

The Bear reached his paw close to the bunny to hug him and pull him nearer and then, all of a sudden, the Bear changed his mind.

"No!" he growled. "I think I will try the right ear first. It looks a bit fatter." Again he stretched out his paw. And then, all of a sudden, once more the Bear changed his mind, for he was fatal to his plans if you will allow me to say so. "On the whole," the Bear grumbled slowly, drawing back his paw. "On the whole I think I shall nibble with the left ear after all. I'll leave the right for last, as that is the best. Yes, I shall begin on the left."

"Well, I wish you'd start and have it over with," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "It is terrible to be teased this way!"

Now while the Bear was changing his mind about which of the rabbit's ears to nibble first, Wumpie was getting ready to play a brave trick on the shaggy chap. The Woggie boy began to put himself together again. And he could do it without being seen by the bear, as the yellow fellow had his back turned. Slowly Wumpie pulled himself together.

THE BEST BARGAIN ON
FOUR ROAD
A VERY ATTRACTIVE 6-ROOM BUNGALOW with two large lots. The bungalow complete of modern cooking, open fireplace, full size cement driveway, furnace, garage with cement driveway, excellent 2-piece bathroom, stationary wash tubs in basement. Lots are nicely laid out in lawn, flowers, etc. The wood as you see of excellent construction and of $1350 nice appearance. Price $1350. For an additional sum of $100 all the furniture, including piano, can be bought. The reason for this seemingly about low figure is that owner must leave for England in the course of the next few days and does not desire to store or auction.
